Scene 1

The island of Patmos was a prison without walls — a desolate rock in the Aegean Sea where Rome sent its most dangerous political prisoners. The apostle John, now elderly and weathered by decades of faithful ministry, had been exiled here for one crime: refusing to stop proclaiming that Jesus Christ is Lord. Everyone he had walked with was gone. Peter — crucified. Paul — beheaded. James — killed by Herod's sword. John was the last apostle standing, and the empire wanted him silenced on this forgotten island. But Rome had made a critical miscalculation. You can exile a prophet, but you cannot exile the God who speaks through him.

[PICTURE: A scroll sealed with seven wax seals rests in the right hand of the One on the throne. An angel with mighty wings calls out with a loud voice. John weeps bitterly in the corner because no one is found worthy to open the scroll. The elders and creatures look on with solemn faces. The sealed scroll glows with divine importance. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

In the right hand of the One on the throne was a scroll sealed with seven seals — containing God's plan for the final redemption of all creation. A mighty angel proclaimed with a loud voice: "Who is worthy to break the seals and open the scroll?" And no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth could open it. John wept bitterly. Think about why: if no one can open the scroll, then evil wins. History remains unresolved. The martyrs die in vain. Injustice stands forever. The tears of every orphan, every victim, every oppressed soul remain unanswered. Without someone worthy to open the scroll, there is no justice, no resolution, no hope.

Scene 6

[PICTURE: A Lamb standing at the center of the throne, appearing as though it had been slain — bearing the marks of sacrifice yet radiantly alive. The Lamb has seven horns and seven eyes. All of heaven — the elders, the four creatures, and millions of angels — bow before the Lamb. Golden bowls of incense (the prayers of the saints) rise around Him. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

Then one of the elders said: "Do not weep! See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah has triumphed." But when John looked, he did not see a lion — he saw a Lamb, looking as if it had been slain. This is the great paradox at the heart of all reality: God conquers not through violence but through sacrifice. The Lamb who was slain is the Lion who has conquered. Jesus won the victory not by destroying His enemies but by dying for them. And when the Lamb took the scroll, every creature in heaven and earth erupted in worship: "Worthy is the Lamb who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and praise!" The slaughtered Lamb holds the destiny of the universe in His hands.

[PICTURE: The archangel Michael and his angels battling the dragon and its angels in the heavens. Light clashes against darkness in a dramatic cosmic war. The dragon is being hurled downward from heaven toward the earth, its seven heads thrashing in fury. Angels with swords of light pursue the defeated dragon. Below, the earth waits. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

War broke out in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon was hurled down — that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, who leads the whole world astray. He was thrown to the earth, and his angels with him. Then a loud voice proclaimed: "Now have come the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God! They triumphed over him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony; they did not love their lives so much as to shrink from death." The dragon is defeated — not by military might, but by sacrifice and faithful witness. This is how God's people overcome: not by becoming more powerful than evil, but by remaining faithful even when faithfulness costs everything.

[PICTURE: A majestic rider on a white horse descending from an open heaven. His eyes are like blazing fire, He wears many crowns, and His robe is dipped in blood. The name "King of Kings and Lord of Lords" is written on His thigh. Behind Him ride the armies of heaven on white horses, dressed in pure white linen. The beast and false prophet cower below. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

Heaven opened, and there was a white horse whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice He judges and wages war. His eyes are like blazing fire, and on His head are many crowns. He is dressed in a robe dipped in blood, and His name is the Word of God. On His robe and on His thigh He has this name written: KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS. The beast and the false prophet were captured and thrown alive into the lake of fire. This is not a battle — it is a verdict. Christ does not struggle against evil; He speaks and it is finished. The beast that seemed invincible, the false prophet that deceived millions — disposed of in a single sentence. This is the destiny of every system that opposes God.

[PICTURE: God's throne at the center of the New Jerusalem. A loud voice declares His presence among His people. Around the throne, people of every nation embrace — tears being wiped from their eyes by gentle divine light. A mother holds a child she lost. An elderly man stands straight and strong, his body renewed. All sorrow dissolves into overwhelming joy. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

A loud voice from the throne declared: "Look! God's dwelling place is now among the people, and He will dwell with them. They will be His people, and God Himself will be with them and be their God. He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away." Let those words sink in. No more death — no more funerals, no more goodbye. No more mourning — no more grief that hollows out your chest. No more crying — not tears of pain, loss, or injustice. No more pain — physical, emotional, relational. The old order — where entropy wins, where love ends in loss, where every beautiful thing decays — that order is finished. Forever.

[PICTURE: The New Jerusalem from above — a perfect cube city of pure gold, transparent as glass. Its twelve gates are made of single pearls, its foundations adorned with every precious stone — jasper, sapphire, emerald, topaz. The city has no temple, for God Himself is the temple. No sun or moon, for the glory of God illuminates everything. The city gates are always open. East African/Eritrean features. Warm watercolor children's Bible illustration.]

The New Jerusalem was stunning beyond description — a perfect cube of pure gold, clear as glass, measuring 1,400 miles in each direction. Its twelve gates were single pearls; its foundations blazed with precious stones. But the most remarkable feature was what was missing: there was no temple, for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are its temple. There was no sun or moon, for the glory of God gives it light, and the Lamb is its lamp. The gates were never shut — there is nothing to fear. The nations walk by its light, and the kings of the earth bring their glory into it. This means that human culture, art, achievement — redeemed and purified — have a place in eternity. Nothing good is lost. Everything beautiful finds its home in God's city.

Scene 24

"The Spirit and the bride say, 'Come!' And let the one who hears say, 'Come!' Let the one who is thirsty come; and let the one who wishes take the free gift of the water of life." The book of Revelation — often thought of as a book of terror — ends with an invitation. Come. Anyone who is thirsty. The water of life is free. You don't have to earn it, achieve it, or deserve it. You simply have to want it. This is the final word of the Bible's story: not condemnation but invitation. Not exclusion but welcome. God's arms are open. The door is not yet shut. The invitation still stands. But it will not stand forever — "I am coming soon" means the window of response is real and finite.

The Moral of the Story / ስላሴ ስላሴ ስላሴ

The story of the world is not chaos — it has an Author and an ending. Evil is real, but it is temporary; God's justice will ultimately prevail. Suffering in this life is not the final chapter.

Heaven is not escape from earth but earth made new — creation restored, relationships healed, purpose fulfilled. We live between "already" and "not yet" — the Kingdom has begun in the resurrection of Jesus, but it is not yet complete. This means we work and wait, we serve and hope, we fight against evil and rest in God's sovereignty simultaneously.

Hope is not wishful thinking; it is confidence in God's character and promises. The God who has been faithful throughout all of history — who kept His promise to Abraham, who delivered Israel from Egypt, who sent His Son to die and rise again — this same God has promised to make all things new. And He will. The Lamb who was slain holds the scroll of history. Every tear is counted. Every injustice will be answered. Every person who has suffered for faithfulness will be vindicated. And every power that has oppressed the vulnerable will be overthrown.

Until that day, we live as people of hope — not because our circumstances are easy, but because we know the Author of the story. We are not waiting for escape; we are waiting for renewal. And while we wait, we participate in that renewal by living as citizens of the Kingdom that is coming.

Discussion Questions for Teens / ለጥሩ ልጆች የሚገቡ ጥያቄዎች

- 1. John was isolated and persecuted on Patmos, yet God met him there with the greatest vision in Scripture. Have you ever experienced God's presence most powerfully in your hardest seasons? Why do you think suffering sometimes opens us up to hear God more clearly than comfort does?
- 2. Revelation says Jesus conquered not as a roaring Lion through force, but as a slain Lamb through sacrifice. How does this challenge the world's definition of power and victory? What does it mean for how we should pursue change in our communities?
- 3. The "beasts" in Revelation represent systems of oppression throughout history — governments, ideologies, and cultures that demand ultimate allegiance. What modern-day "beasts" compete for your worship and loyalty? How can you identify when something good (like patriotism, success, or even religion) becomes an idol?
- 4. Revelation teaches that heaven is not escape from earth but earth made new. How does this change the way you think about caring for creation, pursuing justice, and investing in this world? If God will renew earth rather than destroy it, what does that say about the value of our work here?

Let's Pray Together / ስጋገላ ስጋገላ

Lord Jesus, Alpha and Omega, Beginning and End — thank You that the story of this world is not chaos but has an Author. Thank You that evil is temporary and Your justice is eternal. When we face suffering, remind us that it is not the final chapter. When we see injustice, give us the courage to fight against it and the faith to trust that You will ultimately make all things right.

Thank You for the promise that You are making all things new — not just in the future but even now. Help us to be agents of renewal in a broken world. Help us to live as people of the dawn, citizens of the Kingdom that is coming. Give us the endurance to remain faithful in the "not yet" while celebrating the "already."

And when the wait feels long and the night feels dark, whisper again to our hearts: "I am coming soon." We say with John: Amen. Come, Lord Jesus.
