[PICTURE: A warm watercolor children's Bible illustration of Jesus sitting on a grassy hillside surrounded by people of all ages. Jesus has East African/Eritrean features with warm brown skin and kind dark eyes. Children sit on His lap and at His feet. Adults lean in to listen. Olive trees provide shade. Warm golden sunlight filters through the leaves. The scene feels peaceful and inviting.]

ENGLISH:

One day, a large crowd gathered around Jesus to hear Him teach. People loved listening to Jesus because He told wonderful stories that helped them understand God's love. Jesus was the best storyteller!

TIGRINYA:

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of a serious-looking religious teacher (lawyer) standing up from the crowd and pointing a question at Jesus. He wears fine robes and has a scroll tucked under his arm. His face shows he is trying to be clever. Jesus looks at him calmly with a gentle smile. The crowd watches with interest. East African/Eritrean features on all people.]

ENGLISH:

A man who knew a lot about God's laws stood up and asked Jesus a question. He wanted to test Jesus. "Teacher," he said, "what must I do to live forever with God?" He thought he was very smart and could trick Jesus.

TIGRINYA:

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of Jesus responding to the man with a warm, patient expression. Jesus gestures gently with His hands as He speaks. The religious teacher listens with his arms crossed. People in the crowd nod along. A child in the front row looks up at Jesus with admiring eyes. Soft watercolor background of blue sky and green hills. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

Jesus answered wisely, "What does God's law say?" The man replied, "Love God with all your heart, and love your neighbor as yourself." Jesus said, "That is right! Do this and you will live forever." But the man asked one more question.

TIGRINYA:

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration showing the man with a puzzled expression asking Jesus "But who is my neighbor?" Jesus raises one finger as if to say "let me tell you a story." The crowd leans in eagerly. A warm golden glow begins to surround Jesus as He prepares to tell the parable. Children scoot closer. East African/Eritrean features on all people.]

ENGLISH:

"But who is my neighbor?" the man asked. He wanted to know exactly who he was supposed to love. So Jesus told everyone a very important story — a story that still teaches us today about what it truly means to love others.

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of a traveler — a kind-looking man with East African/Eritrean features — walking alone on a winding dusty road between Jerusalem and Jericho. Rocky desert hills rise on both sides. The road is lonely and dangerous-looking with dark shadows behind boulders. The traveler carries a small bag and walks with a staff. Warm afternoon sun casts long shadows.]

ENGLISH:

Jesus began His story: "A man was traveling from Jerusalem to Jericho. The road was long, dusty, and dangerous. It wound through rocky hills and dark valleys where robbers often hid. The man walked alone, not knowing what was about to happen."

TIGRINYA:

IyeSus zAntAu jemere: "Hade sebAy kab Iyerusalem nab IeriHo ygAshsh neyru. Mdri newuH, Ab'Kewti, n Hsfar mluE neyru. Bkewahmti Kenartat n tslelum sQliat bshtewyan zmnHabyom yHlf neyru. Sebay brHuqu ygashsh neyru, mntay kmrkb kmslu zAyfIT."

(Pronunciation: Iyerusalem = Jerusalem, IeriHo = Jericho, ygAshsh = traveling)

Page 6

[PICTURE: A dramatic watercolor children's Bible illustration showing robbers attacking the traveler on the lonely road. Three mean-looking men jump out from behind rocks. They grab the traveler's bag and push him down. The scene is shown from a distance to be age-appropriate — not too violent. Dark colors convey danger. Dust flies up from the road. The traveler's staff lies broken. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"Suddenly, robbers jumped out from behind the rocks! They took everything the man had — his money, his coat, even his bag. They beat him badly and left him lying on the side of the road, hurt and all alone. The poor man could not even stand up."

TIGRINYA:

"Bddmte, shtewyan kab dHri Enwat wetsu! Kulu znebru — genzbu, klbsu, dk'A jonyAu wesdu. Bhwti Habidwu Ab jAnbi mdri geDfwu Hzbu, bruH n brHuqu. Mskn sebay ktsnsi dk'A Aykeln neyru."

(Pronunciation: shtewyan = robbers, genzbu = his money, bruH = hurt)

Page 7

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of the wounded man lying by the roadside. He is bruised and in pain, reaching out one weak hand for help. In the distance, a religious priest walks down the road toward him. The priest wears fine robes and carries a scroll. Hope appears on the wounded man's face. The road curves between barren hills. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"The hurt man lay on the ground, hoping someone would come to help. Soon, he saw a priest walking down the same road. A priest is a man who works in God's temple! Surely this holy man would stop and help! The hurt man felt hope."

TIGRINYA:

"ZtHamswe sebay Ab mreAt btsmt, Hade kmHago kmetse tsmyu.

(Pronunciation: KaHn = priest, tmHnt = hope, kHago = to help)

Page 8

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration showing the priest deliberately crossing to the other side of the road to avoid the hurt man. The priest looks away, pulling his robes closer. The wounded man reaches out desperately but the priest walks past without stopping. The contrast between the priest's fine clothes and the man's injuries is stark. Shadows fall over the hurt man. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"But the priest looked at the hurt man — and walked right past him! He crossed to the other side of the road and kept going! He did not stop. He did not help. He did not even say a kind word. The hurt man's hope faded away."

TIGRINYA:

"Gn KaHn nzbruH sebay reAiyu — bqTta HalifwuKemu! NkalAy gni mdri Abilu keyde! Aydewen. AyHagezen. Hade Hyanet qal dk'A Ayzbelen. TmHnt ztHamswe sebay Hasere."

(Pronunciation: HalifwuKemu = passed right by, Aydewen = did not stop, Hasere = faded)

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration showing a Levite (temple helper) coming down the road next. He wears religious clothing and carries items for temple worship. He sees the wounded man and slows down, looking curious but then nervous. The hurt man lifts his head with renewed hope. East African/Eritrean features on both characters. The dusty road stretches between them.]

ENGLISH:

"Then another man came along — a Levite, who also worked in God's temple. He walked closer and looked at the hurt man. Maybe this man would help! But the Levite also walked around the hurt man and continued on his way. Two people had passed by!"

TIGRINYA:

"Dhrzi kalAy sebay metse — Lewawi, nsu'wn Ab qubuA Amlak zserhyu. QarbibuNsbruH sebay reAeyu. Enbel 'zi sebay kHago eyu! Gn Lewawi'wn nzbruH sebay Ab goDinewu Halifu keyde. Klte sebat Halifwom!"

(Pronunciation: Lewawi = Levite, QarbibuN = he came closer, Halifwom = they passed)

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of a Samaritan man riding a donkey, coming around the bend in the road. He is a simple traveler with East African/Eritrean features, wearing modest clothes. He carries supplies — oil, wine, and bandages — on his donkey. His face shows immediate concern as he spots the wounded man ahead. Warm light falls on the Samaritan, showing his good heart.]

ENGLISH:

"Then a Samaritan man came riding along on his donkey. Now, Samaritans and the hurt man's people did not like each other at all! They were like enemies. But when the Samaritan saw the hurt man lying there, his heart filled with compassion."

TIGRINYA:

"Dhrzi Hade Samrawit sebAy Ab Adgu swir kbl kmetse. Hzi, Samrawit n Hzbi ztHamswe sebay ftstsum Ayneyrumon! KmsIa tslaEt neyrom. Gn Samrawit nzbruH sebay mskzrAdyo, Ibu brhraHe temeLeAe."

(Pronunciation: Samrawit = Samaritan, Adgu = donkey, rhraHe = compassion)

Page 11

[PICTURE: A tender watercolor children's Bible illustration showing the Samaritan kneeling beside the wounded man on the road. He pours oil and wine gently on the man's wounds. His face shows deep care and kindness. The donkey stands patiently behind him. Medical supplies are spread on the ground. Warm golden light from the setting sun illuminates this act of mercy. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"The kind Samaritan jumped off his donkey right away! He knelt down beside the hurt man. He poured healing oil and wine on his wounds to clean them. He wrapped the man's injuries carefully with soft bandages. He was so gentle and caring."

TIGRINYA:

"Hyanet Samrawit bqTta kab Adgu weride! Ab jAnbi zbruH sebay tsenberkiKu. NQuslu zfwis zeyt n weyni kftH Afsisse. Ngidamat sebay bflflut blImu Aqeme'tse. Bhwti InuE n tebahali neyru."

(Pronunciation: zeyt = oil, weyni = wine, Quslu = his wounds, InuE = gentle)

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of the Samaritan carefully lifting the wounded man onto his donkey. The Samaritan supports the man's weight with strong, gentle arms. The injured man leans against the Samaritan gratefully. The donkey stands steady and patient. Supplies are tucked into saddlebags. The road ahead leads toward a small town visible in the distance. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"Then the Samaritan gently lifted the hurt man onto his own donkey. He walked beside the donkey slowly, holding the man steady so he would not fall. He took the hurt man all the way to a nearby inn where he could rest and get better."

TIGRINYA:

"Dhrzi Samrawit bflflut nzbruH sebAy Ab Adgu Aslezyu. Ab jAnbi Adgu bflflut keyde, nbruH sebAy kemAy kwedk Hizu. NzbruH sebAy nab qarib maEkel zeyrbti wesdu, Ab'U kzfrfe n kHsh kmkwn."

(Pronunciation: Aslezyu = lifted him, maEkel zeyrbti = inn, kzfrfe = to heal)

Page 13

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of the Samaritan helping the wounded man into a bed at the inn. The room is simple but warm with an oil lamp glowing on a table. The innkeeper watches kindly from the doorway. The Samaritan tucks a blanket around the injured man. A bowl of soup and water sit on a table nearby. Warm firelight fills the room. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"At the inn, the Samaritan took care of the hurt man all night long. He made sure the man had food and water. He checked his bandages and kept him comfortable. The Samaritan stayed awake to watch over the stranger, just like a good friend would."

TIGRINYA:

"Ab maEkel zeyrbti, Samrawit nmluE leYti nzbruH sebAy tkebalkel. Meghbi n may khlwo rgegetse. Nllmu fetishu n kmzhiwu kemzi gire. Samrawit ntsifAin kHlw Atfiryu, kmsIa Hyanet zAmAli zmkwn."

(Pronunciation: leYti = night, tkebalkel = cared for, zAmAli = friend)

Page 14

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of the next morning. The Samaritan stands at the inn's front door, giving silver coins to the innkeeper. He points back toward the room where the hurt man rests. The innkeeper nods understandingly, holding the coins carefully. Morning sunlight streams through the inn's windows. The Samaritan's donkey waits outside, ready for the journey. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"The next morning, the Samaritan had to continue his own journey. But before leaving, he gave the innkeeper two silver coins. 'Please take care of this man,' he said. 'If you spend more than this, I will pay you back when I return.' How generous and kind!"

TIGRINYA:

"Ab tsbaH, Samrawit gAshishu kmqtsel neyru. Gn qdem kmKeyd, nmtsenbiT klte nay brur qershi Habwu. 'BejaKha nZA sebAy tkebalkelyo,' bele. 'KAIZA zAbzaH msktetQemi, mskzmeles kfleKha eyen.' Kntfay wefayay n Hyanet!"

(Pronunciation: qershi = coins, wefayay = generous, mtsenbiT = innkeeper)

Page 15

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration showing the hurt man weeks later, now healed and healthy, standing at the inn's door waving goodbye to the innkeeper with a grateful smile. He is fully recovered, wearing new clean clothes. The road stretches before him — bright and safe-looking now. Flowers bloom along the path. Birds sing in nearby trees. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

"Because of the Samaritan's kindness, the hurt man got better! He was able to go home healthy and safe. A stranger — someone people said was an enemy — turned out to be the most loving neighbor of all. The Samaritan's kindness saved a life!"

TIGRINYA:

"BHyanet Samrawit, ztHamswe sebAy Habire! DhYnnet n dwluw nab gezAu kmles kAle. Hade tsifAin — sebat tsIaI zblwu — kab kulom zAblli fqrawy qerebe kone. Hyanet Samrawit Hyiwet AdHina!"

(Pronunciation: Habire = he recovered, dwluw = safe, Hyiwet = life)

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration of Jesus finishing His story, looking directly at the religious teacher who asked the question. Jesus has a warm but challenging expression. The man looks thoughtful, hand on his chin. The crowd listens intently. Children in the front row have wide understanding eyes. Warm sunset light colors the hillside scene. East African/Eritrean features on all people.]

ENGLISH:

When Jesus finished the story, He looked at the man and asked, "Which of the three men was a true neighbor to the hurt man?" The man answered quietly, "The one who showed him mercy and kindness." Jesus said, "Yes! Now go and do the same."

TIGRINYA:

Families walk together — parents explaining to children. Some people look changed, with thoughtful expressions. The sunset paints the sky in oranges and pinks. Jesus watches them go with a loving smile. East African/Eritrean features.]

ENGLISH:

The people who heard Jesus' story went home with changed hearts. They understood that a neighbor is not just the person who lives next door. A neighbor is anyone who needs your help — no matter who they are, where they come from, or what they look like.

TIGRINYA:

[PICTURE: A watercolor children's Bible illustration showing different scenes of kindness in modern life — a child helping another child who fell off a bicycle, a person sharing food with someone hungry, someone visiting a sick friend in bed, and a child sitting with a lonely classmate at lunch. All figures have East African/Eritrean features. Each small scene is framed in soft watercolor circles connected by a golden thread of love.]

ENGLISH:

Being a good neighbor means helping people when they need it. It means being kind to everyone — even people who are different from you. It means sharing what you have, stopping to help, and treating everyone with love and respect.

TIGRINYA:

TsbuQ qerebe mKan mHgaz ydhlywo nger mHgaz ybil. Nkulom Hyanet mKan ybil — dk'A kab'Ka zfleyu sebat. ZhlweKha mmqal, dew ilu mHgaz, n nkulom bfqri n bAkbrut mmHaz ybil.

The new student sits on a bench while other children play in groups. The kind child starts walking toward the lonely student with a friendly smile and an outstretched hand. A warm golden glow shows the choice to be kind. School building and playground visible.]

ENGLISH:

You can be like the Good Samaritan every day! If you see someone who is sad, lonely, or needs help — do not walk past like the priest and the Levite did. Stop! Go to them. Be kind. You might be the only person who helps them that day.

TIGRINYA:

They laugh and swing on swings side by side. A rainbow arcs overhead. Other children join them. The scene radiates joy and friendship. Flowers bloom around the playground. East African/Eritrean features on all children.]

ENGLISH:

When we show kindness to others, beautiful things happen! Strangers become friends. Sad people become happy. The world becomes a better, brighter place. Every act of kindness is like planting a seed of God's love that grows and grows!

TIGRINYA:

The child smiles with joy while the elderly person looks grateful and surprised. They walk together on a sunny sidewalk with trees and colorful buildings. A golden glow of God's love surrounds the scene. Other people watch and smile approvingly.]

ENGLISH:

Jesus teaches us that true love means action, not just words! It is not enough to say "I love everyone." We must show our love by what we do. Carry someone's bags. Share your lunch. Say something kind. Small acts of love can make a big difference!

Items visible include: help mama, share toys, hug a friend, say thank you. The child sits at a table with crayons and a determined, happy expression. Sunlight streams through a window. A small cross hangs on the wall.]

ENGLISH:

Think about all the ways you can be a Good Samaritan this week! Can you help your mother or father? Can you share with a friend? Can you say kind words to someone who is sad? Can you include someone who is left out? You have so many chances to show love!

Above the child, a soft watercolor vision shows Jesus with open arms, welcoming the child's prayer. Hearts float gently between the child and Jesus representing love flowing both ways. The room is cozy with warm lamplight. A Bible lies open nearby. Peaceful nighttime scene through window.]

ENGLISH:

God shows us the greatest kindness of all — He sent Jesus to save us! That is the biggest act of love in history. When we are kind to others, we are being like God. Every time you help someone, God smiles because you are spreading His love in the world.

Each child is different — different heights, different clothes — but all connected by joined hands forming a heart shape when viewed from above. Warm sunlight pours down on them. Flowers grow at their feet. The scene shows unity, love, and community. Bright joyful colors.]

ENGLISH:

Let us pray together! Dear God, thank You for teaching us about the Good Samaritan. Help us to be kind to everyone we meet. Open our eyes to see people who need help. Give us brave, loving hearts that always choose kindness. Help us love our neighbors as ourselves. Amen.

A golden heart-shaped glow radiates from the child's chest. The background is a soft gradient from warm gold to sky blue. Small watercolor hearts and stars float around. The child represents love in action — ready to help, share, and be kind.]

ENGLISH:

Always remember: YOU can be a Good Samaritan! Every single day, you have the power to make someone's day better with your kindness. You do not need to be big or rich — you just need a loving heart. Go out and love your neighbor today. The world needs YOUR kindness!

The Moral

tmhrti

ENGLISH: True love is shown through action, not just words. God wants us to be kind and helpful to everyone — not just people who look like us or think like us. When we see someone in need, we should stop and help, just like the Good Samaritan did. Every person is our neighbor, and every act of kindness makes the world more beautiful.
